

Paint a Giant Team Mural

Every person paints one canvas. Together they become one giant mural for your walls.

A corporate painting event that ends in a reveal

Your team walks into a room of blank canvases, brushes and paint. Teams of four or five take one canvas each and start painting. Nobody needs to be an artist; every canvas arrives with its own paint-by-number map printed right on it, and the paint is mixed and labeled to match.

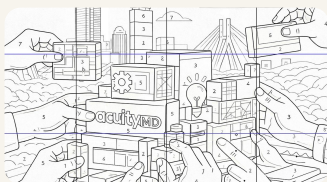

Then we turn the canvases around and fit them together. The seemingly unrelated pieces become one giant mural, and the room reacts. That reveal is the part people talk about back at their desks.

How it works

01 Start with an image

Send us a photo, a logo, or an idea. We design a custom image around your brand, your city or your team — or prepare an image you already own.

02 We map the canvases

We split the image into individual real canvases and print a numbered painting guide on each one, then mix and label every color to match.

03 Your team paints

Teams of four or five paint one canvas each. Our facilitators keep the room moving and the conversation does the rest.

04 The big reveal

The canvases come together as one mural. Hang it in your lobby, or donate it to a school, hospital or local charity.

Murals our clients painted

NEUROTECH

Company values and brand art, painted by the team on eight canvases.

CRUISE

Panels held up at the reveal, then installed in the San Francisco lobby.

EDUCATION CLIENT • CONFERENCE ROOM

EDUCATION CLIENT

A detailed illustration reproduced by the team and hung in the conference room.

AFLAC • OFFICE CORRIDOR

AFLAC

Nine canvases painted separately, assembled into one corridor mural.

PENTEL • 60TH ANNIVERSARY

PENTEL

A 60th anniversary mural, colored in marker instead of paint.

The most engaging experience we have had so far! Painting really set the mood for folks to mingle and talk, and the surprise ending "wowed" everyone! And, it looks great in our lobby!

Cruise

A truly inspiring event that brought us closer as a group! We are proud to hang our team mural in our office lobby!

Nobody sees the whole picture until the end

Each team only ever sees their own canvas, so the mural stays hidden until the last brush goes down. When the panels line up, people find their piece, then step back and find everyone else's.

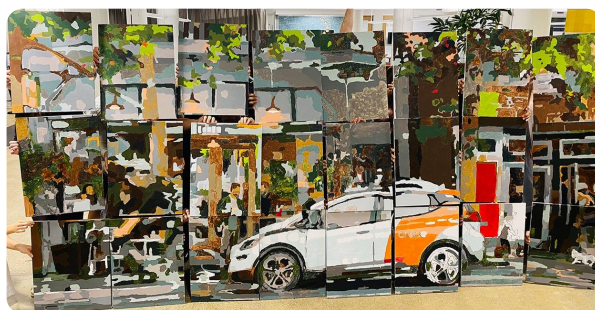

It is a quiet activity that gets loud at exactly the right moment; which is why it works for mixed groups, new teams, all-hands meetings and anniversary events.

People were painting with joy, talking, laughing, and overall having the type of experience we hoped to create!

Altair

A huge hit with our team. People were engaged and the end result was stunningly great!

Pentel

Questions we get asked

Does anyone need to know how to paint?

No. Every canvas is printed with a numbered map and the paint is pre-mixed and labeled, so the work is filling in shapes. People who insist they cannot draw usually finish first.

How big is the finished mural?

It grows with your group. Every team adds a canvas, so a 40-person event produces a mural several feet across and a 400-person event fills a wall. We size the image to the space you plan to hang it in.

What happens to the mural afterward?

Most clients hang it in a lobby or main corridor. Some split the panels across offices, and some donate the mural to a school, nursing home or charity.

What image can we use?

Your logo or brand art, a company photo, your city skyline, a product, an anniversary theme, or an illustration we design for you. Send us what you have and we will show you a proof before the event.

Can you run this at our offsite, or ship it to us?

Both. Our staff can run the event anywhere in the country, or we can ship a complete kit with canvases, paint and instructions so your team can host it themselves.

How far ahead should we book?

Custom artwork and supplies take lead time, so earlier is better — especially for groups over 100 or events that need travel. Ask us about your date and we will tell you what is possible.

Let's design your mural

Tell us your group size, your date and your city, and we will send pricing and a couple of image ideas to react to.
